

The year is 2034. The world has once again plunged itself into a world war. This war is far bigger than the last two and far more deadly. No one will admit to being the one who set off the bomb known as carrot top, but everyone can agree, the world would never be the same again.

Opening title card

Level 1

Offscreen voice: Sergeant Carmelo Jump we order you to return back to the testing chamber.

Jump: I need to go feed my rabbit

Offscreen voice: ...This is a matter of national security and your concern is your pet rabbit?

Jump: Of course it is Malia, you know he gets lonely if I leave him with the sitter for too long.

Offscreen voice: ...So you're okay with me being lonely without you but not your rabbit?

Jump: We broke up 7 years ago?! You broke up with me????

Offscreen voice 2: Oh this is messy...

Malia (off screen voice): Enough, seize him! And someone go find me that rabbit! Mama wants a new fur hat >:)

Jump: This is why you're still single!

Level 2

Offscreen voice: Do you really think you can save that rabbit? You couldn't even save your squad after that wonderful meal you cooked them.

Jump: You know that meal was a tactical decision. I didn't know the rabbit was glowing until after we ate it!

Malia (offscreen): Oh, please. It was glowing before you skinned it. I bet your squad mates were all thinking it.

Jump: Yeah? Well, thinking doesn't count when you're starving in the middle of a warzone!

Offscreen voice 2: Nah Mr. Hops, you've never been much of a thinker. That's why I broke up with you.

Jump: ...Yeah I'm going home.

Offscreen voice: WAIT NO!!!!

---

Level 3

Offscreen voice 2: What's the matter, bunny-boy? Feeling a little... lost?

Jump: Microphones have this wonderful thing called a mute feature. Why don't you try pressing it?

Malia (offscreen): Look at you once again, silencing women.

Jump: Seriously?! Are we still on this? I'm trying to move on, Malia! Move. On!

Malia: Oh, I'm moving on—to capturing your rabbit.

---

Level 4

Malia (offscreen): You really think that fur ball remembers you? It's probably moved on with someone new by now... Maybe one who doesn't cook glowing rabbits.

Jump: My therapist is gonna make so much money after this.

Malia (offscreen): Oh please, you couldn't even keep a squad from dying, let alone our relationship. What makes you think that rabbit is still alive waiting for you?

Jump: That was a low blow Malia. I'm gonna go ahead and email you my therapist's number.

Malia: Email is crazy.

---

Level 5

Malia: You keep hopping around like this, but what's your endgame, Carmelo? I'm sure my men have captured your little rabbit by now and there's no way you can bring your squad back to life. Stop bunny-hopping away from your problems.

Jump: My endgame? My endgame is that I'm going home...and blocking you on everything.

Malia: You're really committed to this whole "heroic escape" thing, huh? Hopping your way through all my defenses like some kind of superhero. But what do you have left, Carmelo? Your squad is gone and the world in shambles. You're chasing after a rabbit while the world burns.

Jump: Yeah, well, chasing after my rabbit feels a whole lot better than chasing after you.

Malia (offscreen): You're really going to risk everything for that little furball? What happens when you get out? What's left for you out there? You'll still be alone.

Jump: I've got my rabbit and superpowers. That's all I need.

---

After winning

Malia: This isn't over, Carmelo! You think you've won? The world is still falling apart, and you can't escape that!

Jump: You're right Malia, but at least I'm not stuck in a government facility crying over my highschool ex and trying to steal his rabbit.